

Bisbee home tour steeped in history

By Joe Golfen
THE ARIZONA REPUBLIC

Bisbee is only about 200 miles from Phoenix, but a walk along the hilly streets of this southern Arizona town feels like a scene from 100 years ago.

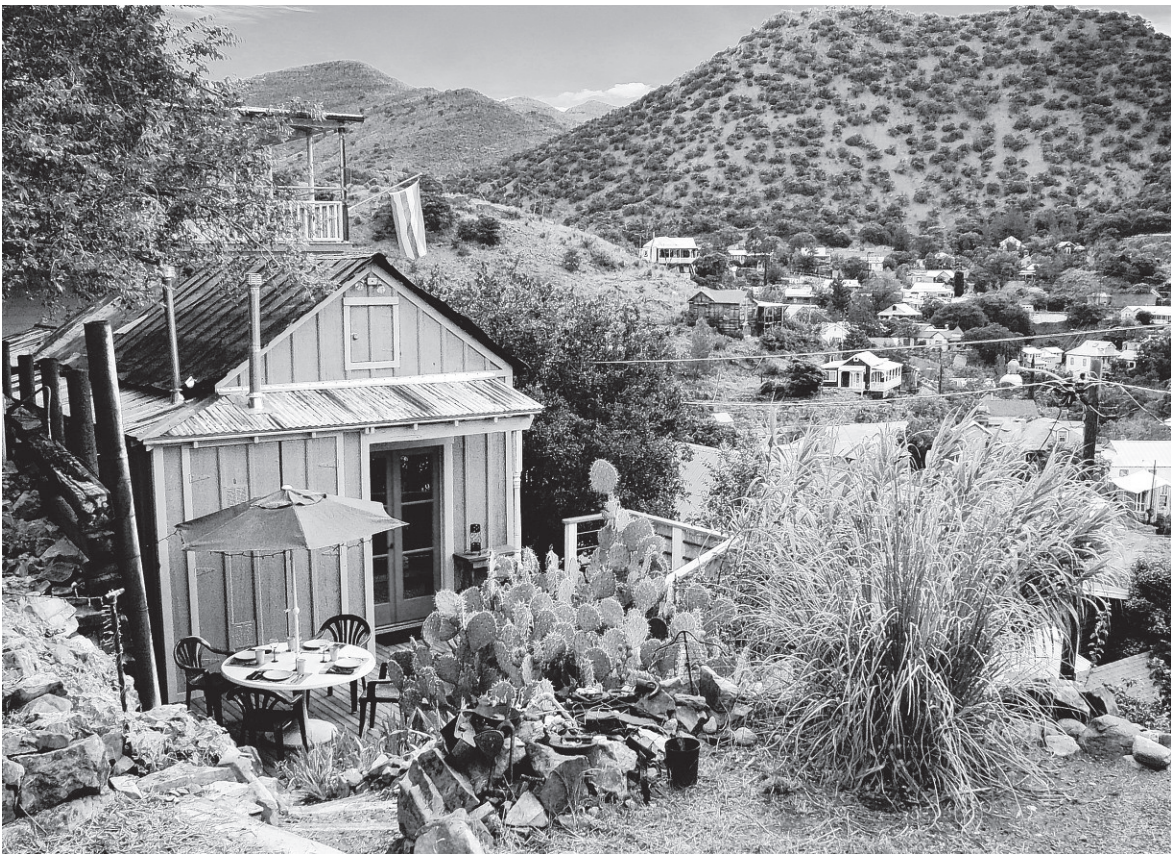

On Friday and next Saturday, visitors can explore Bisbee's turn-of-the-20th-century homes and get a sense of the town's rich history at the 26th annual Historical Home Tour.

Ten homes in Bisbee's historical district will be open, and docents will discuss the features, history and development of each building. Some of the guides will be dressed in costumes to suit the time period in which the house was built.

Most of the showcased homes date to the late-19th and early 20th centuries, and range in style from Victorian town-homes and elaborate mansions to original miners' cabins.

"This is a great day to come to town if you've never been to Bisbee before," said Cathy Heiner of the Bisbee Visitor Center. "We're going to be showing houses that go back to 1895, so this is a chance to see some of the great history we have here and learn about the ways we're working to preserve and showcase it."

Bisbee was one of the most successful mining towns in Arizona, producing nearly 3 million ounces of gold and more than 8 billion pounds of copper. By the early 1900s, Bisbee had a population of about 20,000 people. Many of the original structures have been preserved. Most of the homes on the

Bisbee Historical Home Tour

When: 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m.-3 p.m. next Saturday.
Where: Along Tombstone Canyon and Brewery Avenue, Bisbee.
Admission: $12 ($3 for children) if purchased by Thursday. $15 ($5 for children) starting Friday.
Details: 520-432-3554, www.discoverbisbee.com.

tour are along Tombstone Canyon; a few are on Brewery Avenue. Signs will help visitors find their way, and a green flag will adorn each house on the tour. Shuttle service will be available both days.

One of the oldest homes on the tour once was a one-room miner's cabin, perched on a hill and accessible only by a 75-step staircase. But owner Bob Klein said it's worth the walk. He and his partner, Jeff Trujillo, renovated the 1895 cabin into the Doublejack Guesthouse, which they rent to visitors.

The cabin sits behind Klein and Trujillo's main residence, a former boarding school built in 1906, which will also be featured on the tour.

"We lived in that house when it was pretty much a shack for four years while we renovated the main house," said Klein, who moved to Bisbee about six years ago. "So we got very familiar with what you would want in a guesthouse, and we remodeled it while trying to maintain its simple charm."

"We love the home tour because we really appreciate the historic value of these houses, and it's interesting to see how other people have preserved the history and continuity of these residences for over a century," Klein said.

Downtown Bisbee will also host the Old Bisbee Holiday Bazaar next Saturday, a free event that will feature live entertainment, food, carolers and horse-and-buggy rides.
